What are "Little Libraries?"

"Little libraries" are "doll-house" sized structures set about a meter above the ground on residential properties (primarily). Within these, are excellent books meant for people of all ages. To keep these tiny libraries full, you must place a book of equal or greater value, in exchange.

The PLJ Initiative exists to establish 100 of these "little libraries" in and around Porterville. Each of these will be emblazoned with a brass plaque honoring Fire Captain Figueroa and Firefighter Jones.

COVID protocols still recommended.

Bring an excellent
book to exchange
for a different excellent
book.

I read only
what I LOVE
to read.
